To Our Readers

The Mennonite Yearbook gives information chiefly about the Mennonite Church, the largest of a number of related groups in America which use the Mennonite name.

The 1963 Mennonite Yearbook in addition to the many helpful features has for the first time on page 62 a Report of Giving by Conferences. The plans for this feature were first reviewed and agreed upon at a meeting of the statisticians and secretaries when the Mennonite General Conference met at Johnstown, Pa., in 1961. Daniel Kauffman, who was then appointed as Secretary of Stewardship for the church, provided counsel and encouragement to all responsible for gathering the data on giving.

Special thanks are due the conference secretaries, local church treasurers, and any others for their time and effort in gathering, compiling, and submitting the figures. It was no easy task. In fact, one or two conferences were unable to gather adequate figures for publication in the 1963 edition. They do plan, however, to have the figures by 1964.

Thirteen out of eighteen conferences reported their giving for the year 1961 or fiscal year ending during 1961. We wish to call attention to the first column in the report that shows the per cent of congregations reporting. Some statisticians reported that the smaller congregations were often the ones who didn't report. Thus the percentage of members could be higher than that of the congregations.

The 1962 membership of the Mennonite Church is 90,556, an increase of 2,504 or about 2.8 per cent over the 1961 membership. The increase for 1962 is 785 more than the increase in 1961, which was 1,719.

The total United States membership is 75,948, an increase of 1,627 over last year or 2.2 per cent increase over 1961. The total membership in Canada is 7,382, an increase of 296 over last year or 4.3 per cent increase over 1961.

According to the Yearbook of American Churches, the total 1961 Protestant membership of the United States is 64,434,966 and the Roman Catholic membership is 42,876,665.

The Sunday-school enrollment in the Mennonite Church increased 2,657 to a total enrollment of 128,364, a 2.1 per cent increase over 1961.

The organizational pattern of the Mennonite Church is diagramed on page 4. A small number of congregations which consider themselves a part of our denomination are not attached to any conference. But most of the 713 organized congregations belong to one of the twenty-one conferences which are members, or eligible for membership, in Mennonite General Conference. Member conferences appear on the chart under the solid line. Conferences under the broken line have not yet affiliated, but are considered a part of the denomination, and are counted in the statistical data in this Yearbook.

All but one of these twenty-one conferences elect representatives on the General Council of Mennonite General Conference. The Council normally meets four times in each biennium to discuss issues and to take interim action. All of the twenty-one conferences elect representatives on the Mennonite Publication Board, and most of them participate actively in the work of the Mennonite Board of Missions and Charities and the Mennonite Board of Education.

A great deal of the denominational program is carried on by these three boards. They are autonomous, i.e., not organizationally responsible to Mennonite General Conference, as the broken lines indicate. They report their work to General Conference, and since their constituency is the same, operate within its standards. Co-ordination of the church program is secured through the General Council, on which the boards have representatives, and especially through the Council's Committee on Co-ordination of Church Program. So, while the Mennonite Church does not have a centralized program, it can and does have a co-ordinated program.

To keep the organization chart simple, we have not diagramed the organization of the boards, beyond showing the connection of a few subsidiaries. The chart does not show the subsidiaries of Mennonite Mutual Aid, which functions under General Conference.—Z.

David Parke Lantz (1881-1962)

By J. W. Shank

At the youthful age of twenty-three Bro. D. Parke Lantz was chosen to pass through the lot for the ministry at the East Chestnut Street Mennonite Church, Lancaster, Pa. This tells us that at an early age he was a person of acceptable character. It was John H. Mosemann, Sr., upon whom the lot fell at that time.

The writer of these lines, who is several months younger, has known him and his wife for forty-one years, dating from their arrival in Argentina, South America, in June, 1921. Bro. Lantz was born on Aug. 15, 1881. His parents, David Zook Lantz and Anna Blank Lantz, belonged to the Millwood, Pa., Amish Mennonite Church. Later they moved to Lancaster, Pa., where they united with the East Chestnut Street Mennonite Church. Parke became a Christian early in his youth and was soon an active Sunday-school worker. J. H. Stoltzfus, who knew him as a mere boy, said of him: "He was a good boy; I am not surprised that he became a missionary."

In 1908 he was married to Lillie Forrey, Bishop Jacob N. Brubacher officiating. After some years as a wage earner in Lancaster city, Parke and Lillie moved to Los Angeles, Calif., where they entered a Bible institute from which they were graduated in 1919. Parke served for several years as superintendent of the Mennonite Mission there. It was while thus engaged that they were called by the Mission Board to go to South America.

They arrived in Buenos Aires in June, 1921, together with William and Florence Lauver. They served in Argentina during the following twenty-six years (1921-47). C. G. Stoltzfus, his nephew, writes of him as follows:

"He wrote often to two invalid sisters giving them comfort and encouragement. . . . His letters were seasoned with Scripture and concluded by wishing God's blessings upon all of us. . . . The devotion of Parke and Lillie was no small factor in the decision of our daughter, Dorcas L. Stoltzfus, M.D., to prepare as a medical missionary, now serving in Tanganyika."

Bro. Parke was a man of strong convictions. This attitude was evident in his messages, in his evangelistic work, in his expressed viewpoints on mission policies, and in his emphasis on the efficacy of prayer.

In 1935, when it was almost unanimously decided by the missionary and national workers' council to delay a plan of expansion to the province of Cordoba until the following year, Bro. and Sister Lantz vigorously insisted that they had definite leadings of the Lord that immediate action should be taken. Although there was a shortage of workers due to the furloughs of some missionaries, the council finally reversed its decision, conforming to the opinion of the Lantzes. This was done in part as a concession to the Lantzes and also with the conviction that God would bless in His own way such definite leadings as they had. The new venture initiated by the Lantzes did enjoy the Lord's blessings by means of a slow but steady build-up of churches.

During their twenty-six years in Argentina they served in no less than a half-dozen towns. At each place they left a bright testimony of Christian joy and earnest entreaty to the people to accept God's offer of salvation.

Parke believed deeply in the power of prayer. His faith in prayer was catching among the new converts and members in every town. One night, after opening a mission hall in a neighboring town, several policemen came in and broke up the service, taking Bro. Lantz and his helper into custody. At headquarters he answered all questions politely. He was then instructed to return the next day for a hearing. Parke was very sure that prayer was the only answer. He was also convinced that the local priest was behind the scenes. They, with the whole church, took to prayer, believing in the promises of God.

At a meeting the next day, the chief of police began with apologies, explaining that the minor officials had overstepped their authority during his absence. Thus as in the days of Pentecost prayer gave freedom to continue preaching the Gospel in Alberti.

Bro. Parke was particularly a friend of children, to young and old, to rich or poor alike. Whenever he walked the streets, boys and girls, men and women of all ages would greet him from doorways or from their little shops or come up for a friendly handshake. His sincerity was unmistakable. Everybody knew that this man was true as steel, dependable, honest—a simple, plain, good Christian man. We, who worked in Argentina, knew all of this because, when visiting in his town, we walked with him. For him it was a daily occurrence.

D. Parke and Lillie F. Lantz

Probably the greatest asset of Bro. Lantz as a missionary was his fitness for evangelism. The above paragraph reveals the secret of this. He was a friend of people. He loved them and everything he did was proof of it. A person who is the embodiment of Christian love and good will cannot help being effective in personal work and evangelism of any sort. During his last years in Sarasota, Fla., he sold the illustrated New Testament. Of course he could succeed in that. Every really good Bible colporteur is also a successful evangelist because he loves the Word and also loves people. Bro. Timothy H. Brenneman said of Parke, in Florida:

"His pleasant smile and his victorious testimony were an inspiration to a great many people."

Difficult years came for Parke and Lillie. Unable to care for himself, to walk alone, to speak except hesitatingly, the time no doubt passed slowly. The last year and a half they spent at the Mennonite Hospital Nursing Home at La Junta, Colo. Parke never lost his cheerfulness and co-operative good will. The different nurses spoke of him in terms of great appreciation and respect. When he was told of Lillie's death, he said, after a moment of silence:

"Lillie is at rest. Praise the Lord."

Their passing was thirty-three days apart, hers on July 8, 1962; his on Aug. 10, 1962. Their bodies lie buried in the Landisville Mennonite Church Cemetery, near Lancaster, Pa.

Harold S. Bender (1897-1962)

By Melvin Gingerich

Harold Stauffer Bender was born in Elkhart, Ind., July 19, 1897, and died in Chicago on Sept. 21, 1962. He was the oldest of the seven children of George L. and Elsie (Kolb) Bender. George's father, of Amish faith, came to America in 1851 from Germany to escape compulsory military service. George served as deacon of the Prairie Street Mennonite Church, Elkhart, Ind., from 1907 to his death in 1921, and was for years the chief leader in his congregation. He was treasurer of the Mennonite Board of Missions and Charities and its predecessors from 1892 to 1920 and was the outstanding administrator-leader of the mission program of his denomination. It is therefore not surprising that Harold desired to become a missionary, a wish that did not materialize because of his father's illness and death.

Harold received his elementary and secondary education in Elkhart. In 1914 he entered Goshen College, graduating in 1918 with a major in history and social science. He interrupted his studies to teach a year (1916-17) in the public schools of Thornton, Ind. He taught two years (1918-20) at Hesston College, where his uncle D. H. Bender was president. The following year because of his father's illness, he spent one semester at home, teaching a class in Greek at Goshen College. At midyear he resumed his studies, receiving his B.D. degree from Garrett Biblical Institute in 1922 and the Th.M. from Princeton Theological Seminary and the M.A. from Princeton University in 1923. In 1923-24 as a George S. Green Fellow in Old Testament of Princeton Seminary, he studied at Tübingen University, Germany. In 1930 and again in 1935 he studied at Heidelberg University, from which school he received his Th.D degree in the latter year.

Following his year of study at Tübingen he had joined the Goshen College faculty in the fall of 1924, where he served to the time of his death as Professor of Bible and Church History. From 1932 to 1946 he was Dean of the Bible School and from 1946 Dean of the Biblical Seminary. For two years (1931-33) he was Acting Dean of Goshen College, after which he served for eleven years (1933-44) as Dean of the College.

Bro. Bender was an inspiring teacher as well as an able administrator. He was well versed in many areas of learning and taught a variety of courses during his years as a professor. One of the courses that he thoroughly enjoyed teaching was Church History, for which through the years many students registered. As dean he attracted a corps of able, devoted teachers to the Goshen College faculty and gave them challenging leadership. During his term as dean Goshen College was admitted into the North Central Association of Colleges. Under his leadership the Seminary was accredited in 1958 by the American Association of Theological Schools. The seminary plant on the south edge of the Goshen College campus was constructed under his guidance and the building as well as the institution can be regarded as a monument to him. Nor were his educational interests limited to Goshen College. He served on the Mennonite Board of Education from 1927 to 1947 and continuously since 1950. The development of Bethany Christian High School, south of the Goshen College campus, owes much to his untiring interest. He served on its board continuously from its beginning (1953). He was the chief founder of the European Mennonite Bible School at Bienenberg, near Basel, Switzerland, and gave it active support.

In 1923 he was married to Elizabeth Horsch, daughter of the Mennonite church historian John Horsch. Through his father-in-law's inspiration, Bro. Bender became deeply interested in Mennonite history. In 1924 he was one of the cofounders of the Mennonite Historical Society, which he served as president until the time of his death. Under his editorship the Society published ten volumes in Mennonite history. In 1927 he and his friend Ernst Correll launched the Mennonite Quarterly Review, a journal devoted to Mennonite history, thought, life, and affairs, which has attracted major contributions by scholars throughout America and Europe and which has been a major factor in the stimulation of new interest in Anabaptism among scholars of church history. A major work of Bro. Bender was the coeditorship of the four-volume Mennonite Encyclopedia, a task that demanded much of his attention from 1946 through 1959. Since 1946 he also served as one of the editors of the Mennonitisches Lexikon.

Among the books he wrote are Two Centuries of American Mennonite Literature (1929); Menno Simons, Life and Writings, a Quadricentennial Tribute (1936); Conrad Grebel, The First Leader of the Swiss Brethren (1936); Mennonite Sunday School Centennial (1840-1940) (1940); Mennonite Origins in Europe (1942); Biblical Revelation and Inspiration (1959); and These Are My People (1962). In 1957 appeared The Recovery of the Anabaptist Vision, twenty-five essays by contemporary scholars, edited by Guy F. Hershberger and published as a sixtieth anniversary tribute to Harold S. Bender. It contains "The Anabaptist Vision," given as the presidential address when Bro. Bender served as president of the American Society of Church History, in 1943. He also served as president of the Society for Reformation Research.

Not only did he do much writing himself (over 950 articles in the Mennonite Encyclopedia) but he also stimulated others to write. Scholars from within and without the Mennonite fold were constantly in touch with him regarding topics and materials for research in Anabaptist-Mennonite history and affairs. From 1947 to 1959 he was executive secretary of the Mennonite Research Foundation, directing the work of research in the field of Mennonite history and life. During the years he built at Goshen College the largest Mennonite historical library in America, with a wealth of source materials which he gathered in America and Europe.

He was an energetic member of the Historical Committee of Mennonite General Conference from the time he was first elected to it in 1927. Twenty years later he became its chairman and served in that office until the time of his death. As a member of the committee he was active in gathering manuscript records and in establishing the Archives of the Mennonite Church in special quarters in the new Goshen College library building in 1940.

In addition to his work on the Historical Committee, his other major denominational assignment was on the Peace Problems Committee of the Mennonite Church. Elected to its membership in 1933, he became its chairman in 1936, a position he held continuously. His commitment to the historical nonresistant position of the Anabaptist-Mennonite tradition and his clarity of thought and ability to communicate effectively made him one of the chief spokesmen of the wider Mennonite brotherhood in the area of peace concerns. The classic statement of the Mennonite Church in 1937 on "Peace, War, and Military Service" was the work of his hand, as were other documents that appeared from time to time.

In 1931 Bro. Bender became assistant secretary of the Mennonite Central Committee's executive committee, a position in which he served until the time of his death. In this position he was not only able to sense the mind of the meeting but also to record accurately and promptly the business that was transacted. His knowledge of world Mennonitism and of world affairs enabled him to give an invaluable service to the MCC. When the Mennonite Central Peace Committee was organized in 1939, Bro. Bender became its secretary. In January, 1942, when it became the MCC Peace Section, he was chosen to be its chairman, serving continuously until his death. In this capacity he gave positive leadership to a program of peace witnessing at home and abroad.

Bro. Bender also was used in the area of relief and service. He was elected to the Relief Committee of the Mennonite Board of Missions and Charities in 1936, served as its secretary 1942-48, and its chairman 1955-59. In 1930 he was sent as an MCC commissioner to Germany to work with the Mennonite refugees from Russia. He played an important role in the settlement of some 1,600 persons in Paraguay and in equipping them for homemaking and farming. Eight years later he made an MCC commissioner trip to the Mennonite colonists in Paraguay.

His no less than seventeen trips to Europe—as a student, a tour conductor, an MCC commissioner, and as a member of the Mennonite World Conference praesidium —acquainted him with the Mennonites of that continent as perhaps no other American has been. In 1956 he made an extensive trip inside Russia. In his visits to Europe, he worked with the International Mennonite Peace Committee which was organized there in 1936, and upon its reorganization in 1949 he became its chairman and assisted it in its purpose of maintaining contacts between Mennonite peace groups in the various countries and of aiding it in clarifying, deepening, and applying fundamental convictions in regard to Biblical nonresistance.

Very significant was his work in the Mennonite World Conference. He attended all of its conferences except the first one (1925). He served as president of the Conference from 1952 to 1962. Dedicated to Mennonite ecumenicity, he contributed to the closer co-operation of his own branch of the church with other Mennonite groups and a more sympathetic understanding of world Mennonitism by all groups.

His scholarship and church activities were not ends in themselves but were dedicated to the cause of the Mennonite Church. He helped the church to rediscover the Anabaptist vision and its own heritage and to renew its commitment to Biblical principles in a period of transition when old forms and customs were being discarded. Hundreds of young people were saved for the Mennonite Church because of his vision, inspiration, and dedication. Scores of young men who through his guidance caught a vision of the unique testimony of the Mennonite Church now occupy pulpits from coast to coast. He was ordained to the ministry June 18, 1944, at the request of the Mennonite Board of Education.

His influence in the Mennonite Church was both conservative and progressive. In his young manhood, when some of his friends became impatient and left the church, he cast his lot with it and remained its faithful servant through the years. He regarded both Modernism and Fundamentalism as aberrations and led his students into a faith that avoided identification with these movements. As an illustration of his moderate but progressive approach can be cited his booklet on Biblical Revelation and Inspiration (1959) and the one on The Revised Standard Version, an Examination and Evaluation (1953) of which he was one of the authors. As an advocate of a trained ministry he led the Mennonite Church into a new period of its history.

He was a man of great energy and enthusiasm and of deep convictions. He was a courageous man, willing to risk unpopularity for a cause in which he believed. Keen of intellect, possessed of a most unusual memory, and in control of a vast body of knowledge, he was always listened to with respect. Gifted as a speaker and able to communicate his ideas most effectively, he wielded a far-reaching influence. In spite of the power at his command, he was a man of humility, constantly sensing his need of divine guidance. The home of Bro. and Sister Bender was known for its warm hospitality and many students and friends were entertained there. The two worked together as a team on the Mennonite Quarterly Review, the Mennonite Encyclopedia, and the books of which he was author. Surviving are his widow and the daughters Mary Eleanor and Nancy Elizabeth (Mrs. Gregory Kosteck). The funeral services were held in the Goshen College Church on Sept. 25, in charge of John Mosemann and Paul Mininger. He was buried in the Elkhart Prairie Cemetery, southeast of Goshen.

By Ira D. Landis

Amos was the third in the family of Reuben Weaver Horst (Dec. 5, 1868—June 19, 1941) and Frances Reiff Sweigert (Nov. 3, 1868—Dec. 12, 1947). He was born July 19, 1893, on his great-uncle John Reiff's farm near Reidenbach's Store in Earl Township, Lancaster County, Pa. He died Jan. 1, 1963. He attended the nearby Cross Roads School at Martindale for two years, later at Churchtown, and finished the eight grades at Shaeffer's near Groffdale. As an apt scholar, he was always interested in books.

One time when he went to the mill for his father, Jacob Weaver, son of Bishop Benjamin Weaver, invited him to Sunday school at Churchtown. He asked his parents, who then were Old Order Mennonites, whether he might go. With their consent, he walked alone to the Churchtown Sunday School. Jacob Weaver, whose son was the only other boy in his wife's class, was there to meet Amos. This was the beginning. When I. B. Good held revivals at Groffdale in the fall of 1908, Amos accepted the Lord under his preaching. He definitely influenced Amos's later life. On April 28, 1909, Benjamin Weaver baptized the class in which were Amos and his brother, Reuben. Amos was the youngest of twenty-seven baptized. He helped in the razing and rebuilding of the Groffdale Mennonite Church that summer and fall.

Amos continued working on farms and at carpentry under Cyrus Bowers, Isaac Burkhart, and Alexander Gerhart. When the present Ephrata Mennonite Church was built in 1936, he was the contractor. He continued as a contractor for several years.

Amos S. Horst

Nora S. Stoner (born Feb. 12, 1895), daughter of John Stoner—Barbara Snyder of Murrel, became his life companion on Dec. 12, 1918. This home was blessed with two boys: John Mark, Dec. 4, 1918—Feb. 2, 1935; James Albert, Aug. 1, 1926—Feb. 22, 1930.

Amos was instrumental in starting the first young people's meeting at Ephrata on April 14, 1914. It was one of the early ones for this conference. On July 20, 1918, he was ordained as the first local minister of Ephrata. In the lot were George Geigley, Mahlon Zimmerman, A. A. Landis, Amos S. Horst, Henry Graybill, Harry Hess, and Orie O. Miller. He assisted Benjamin G. Wenger and John B. Bucher. The membership then was 160, compared with 360 today.

His Writings

His first article in print was, "Does Minor Age Deprive Its Possessor of Christian Work?" written in 1918, and the next, "Why Thank God?" in 1919. In 1921, he was interested in "Clergy Rates for Ministers" and in 1927 "The Way to Heaven." In the following year he wrote, "How to Get the Message to the People," "Use and Abuse of Reason in Religion's Life and Work," and "Wanted, a Skyline." A quote from the last article is: "Generally speaking, the church and the world are too closely associated one with the other. The one impenetrates (too) far into the regions of the other."

He was editor from July 11, 1929, through 1940 of the section in the Gospel Herald called "Page for Shut-Ins." "The Place of the Bible in the Life of Our Young People," "Our Peace Testimony in a World of Strife," "Testimony: The Civilian Public Service," and "Implications of the Life of Nonresistance" are other articles written by him. He collected a booklet on The Christian Nonresistant Way of Life in 1940 and Vigilance in 1962. The latter was his last message to the Lancaster Conference.

His Ministry

In 1916, he attended the first Eastern Mennonite School short Bible term with J. Irvin Lehman, held at Hayfield, Va., near Mt. Vernon, with Daniel Kauffman and J. B. Smith as instructors. He attended the Mennonite Publication Board Meeting at Scottdale in May, 1920. His first revival meetings were at Hinkletown in 1920, followed by Mountville in 1921, East Petersburg 1924, Weaverland 1925, Martindale 1926, Bowmansville 1927, East Petersburg 1929, Weaverland 1930, Millersville and Rohrerstown 1931, Gehman 1932, Mt. Joy 1933, Stumptown 1934, East Petersburg 1934, Manheim 1935, Gehman 1936, and Metzler 1939. He was probably at Rohrerstown and Millersville the second time in the early thirties.

On Jan. 4, 1934, he was ordained assistant bishop by Noah L. Landis at Landis Valley. Noah W. Hurst, John S. Hess, and the writer shared the lot. He became bishop in charge in December, 1940. In his district in 1940 there were 1,263 members at seven preaching points and today the membership is 1,809 at sixteen preaching points.

He served as a field worker for the Eastern Mennonite Board of Missions and Charities (1927-34). When Rawlinsville (1929) and Meckville (1931) opened, he served both every four weeks. He was also active at Cocalico.

The work formerly administered by the mission was turned over to the church with the exception of the Mara Hills School which is administered by the Eastern Mennonite Board of Missions and Charities through a local board consisting of three missionaries. The former mission properties have been turned over to the church and the Tanganyika Mennonite Mission as such has been dissolved.

Following is a list of missionaries appointed by the Eastern Mennonite Board of Missions and Charities for service in Tanganyika. All of these with the exception of the Mara Hills School are responsible to the Tanganyika Mennonite Church for their assignment and work.

From Nov. 1, 1932, to April, 1933, he and Jacob D. Mellinger distributed at the Lancaster Relief Center, filling 151 emergency orders and givng aid to 639 transients. This was the time of the worst part of the depression of that era.

He served early on the Tract Committee and the Union Committee (Oct., 1937-) of the conference. When the Bible school opened in the old Ephrata Church in 1938, he was a member of the board and an instructor. He was on the Religous Welfare Committee of the Lancaster Mennonite School Board (1942-50).

He was a member of the Mennonite Publication Board (1935-50), of the Peace Section of the Mennonite Central Committee, of the Peace Problems Committee of General Conference since 1942, and the first representative to General Council (1952-62).

He became assistant secretary of conference in 1937 and served as secretary from 1949 to January, 1959. He was moderator of conference for twenty-two months. In addition, he served on the local Peace Problems Committee and thus was active in visiting boys in Civilian Public Service. He made some Washington contacts. He was on the Mennonite Central Committee Relationship and Eastern Mennonite College Counseling Committees. He assisted in the bishop work in the Washington County, Md., and Franklin County, Pa., Conference from 1936 to 1960.

He ordained the following: Bishops—Christian W. Frank, Amos E. Martin, Mahlon M. Zimmerman; Preachers—Paul D. Angstadt, Raymond N. Bucher, Noah N. Burkholder, John W. Eby, Wilmer M. Eby, Henry P. Fox, Isaac H. Gehman, Horst Gerlach, Parke M. Heller, Richard B. Hess, Earl B. Horst, Nevin Horst, R. Eugene Landis, Melvin Lauver, Paul Peachey, Levi M. Weaver, Mahlon Zimmerman; Deacons—Eli H. Gehman, Levi G. High, Lester B. Wenger.

His greatest contribution was as a member of the (new) Foreign Missions Council, June 25, 1946, both as chairman and later as secretary. He sailed June 28, 1947, with J. Paul Graybill on a deputation to Europe and Africa. From Oct. 28, 1949, to March, 1950, Henry F. Garber and Amos Horst went to Africa where they met Noah N. Souder and Orie O. Miller. On June 1, 1955, Amos sailed to Africa alone, due to the unexpected illness of Henry F. Garber. Paul N. Kraybill, Orie O. Miller, and Amos Horst left for Africa, he on May 18, 1956. Amos was in Mexico in November, 1957, with Harold K. Weaver. On Sept. 1, 1959, he sailed for Europe and ordained Horst Gerlach. Due to his illness, after he contacted the European churches, he turned back. From July to September, 1960, he with Donald Lauver and Paul N. Kraybill went to Africa to organize the Tanganyika Church. He was a good traveler and had gifts as an administrator. He loved children and had good interest in people.

His concern was for his church, even on his dying lips. He has made his contribution to the ongoing church, although not without shortcomings and disappointments. Mahlon Zimmerman and Isaac K. Sensenig have been ordained as bishop successors and the work that he prized so highly will go on, by God's grace and the co-operation of those left behind. After a well-attended and impressive funeral at the Ephrata Mennonite Church, burial was made in the Metzler Mennonite Cemetery, Jan. 4, 1963. —Reprinted from Mennonite Research Journal.

THE CHURCH APOSTOLIC
BY J. D. GRABER

The author speaks to every member of the Christian church. $3.00

These Are My People by H. S. Bender

THESE ARE MY PEOPLE
HAROLD S. BENDER

This book is on the New Testament church. It is written from a Biblical point of view and cuts sharply across the contemporary church scene. Dr. Bender goes directly to the New Testament to find the answers to the question, "What is the church?" He describes the people of God, who they are, how they live together, and how they serve God. Here is a challenge to rethink the meaning of New Testament church membership in modern times. It will be stimulating reading for anyone who wants help in understanding what the Bible teaches about the church to which he belongs. $3.50
